Honor to France
Triassic Rock and Cancer
Not to Worry
Darkness Hates Light
By Arthur Brisbane

FILL YOUR GLASS to the brim—with water—since you have nothing better—and drink to the French Republic and the great people of France. On this day, July 14, they tore down the Bastille and threw from their backs the parasite life classes that lived upon them "by the grace of God," or otherwise.

OUR FOURTH OF JULY came before the Bastille fell, when the nobles, with Marie Antoinette at their head, were squandering the peasants' earnings. But the founders of this country got their ideas from the French. And for that we should be ever grateful.

WE MIGHT well afford to give the entire debt of France, not for Lafayette—we should be what we are without him—but for what the THINKERS of France taught Jefferson, Franklin and the others to whom this country owes its liberty.

THE REV. DR. STRATON wants the law against teaching evolution introduced into New York State.

His earnestness may puzzle other fundamentalists when he can prove the evolutionists are wrong, because "triassic rock" antedates by millions of years the time of man's evolution as described by Darwin.

If the world is only six thousand years old, how can there be rocks millions of years old? In their desire to discredit Darwin, the good fundamentalists should not forget their own "facts and figures."

MORE IMPORTANT than any argument about evolution is the news from London that real scientists, working for the government, appear to have isolated the germ of cancer. The germ, invisible in the most powerful microscope, is what science calls "a universal organism." Like the germs of tuberculosis, diphtheria, etc., it exists in millions of sound bodies and develops dangerous only when the body and its tissues are weakened.

WHEN THE TISSUES of animals, under experiment, mice, etc., were weakened by application of irritating substance, the newly discovered germs inserted, cancer developed invariably.

IT IS ALSO asserted, by responsible men, that mice have been rendered proof against cancer attack by the use of the germ in anti-toxin form.

Thus far it is only a wonderful, glorious hope, and as yet there is "no cure for cancer" outside of surgery, cutting it out.

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD MANER, who have nine children, gave a party for those children and their offspring. One hundred and one came to the party. If everybody did as well, if the millions in China raised their gigantic families, for instance, and if plagues and floods stopped killing them, how many would the earth be over-peopled?

IT IS A thing NOT to worry about.

The Lord arranges it so that the trees shall not grow into the heavens. And He has undoubtedly arranged it so that the earth shall not breed more people than it can support. As we multiply and grow older and its people know more, fewer children are BORN: more of them LIVE.

A Hottentot has fifteen children, twelve of them die, is more nearly civilized being has three children and all of them live.

NO SCIENTIFIC witnesses will be allowed to testify in the Bryan-Darwin-monkey trial. That's wise. They wouldn't have allowed scientific witnesses at the old witch trials in New England or Old England. It can't have a satisfactory result. Continued on Page 5, Column 4.

'MAY AND DECEMBER' ROMANCE BARED BY BEACHMONT WEDDING

Miss Olive Ford, twenty-one years old, of No. 20 Sewall avenue, Winthrop, and William A. Luce, sixty-nine, of No. 1647 Beacon street, Brookline, were married by the Rev. Israel Ainsworth of the Beachmont Congregational Church.

The ceremony uniting the pair was performed in the morning.

The bridegroom is an officer in a corporation.

The bride also has occupation as a seamstress.

DOGS SAVE 6 FAMILIES AT SOUTH END BLAZE

Barking at the smell of smoke, six French poodles, and a tiny dog friend, Buster, saved six families from being overcome by smoke today in a fire in the three-story brick block, No. 1648 Columbus avenue, South End.

ARCHITECT HAVEN IN COURT IN CLUB CASE

Harry M. Haven, Winchester architect, declared to have furnished plans for the building adjoining the Pickwick Club, reported at the office of District Attorney O'Brien today, with his counsel, Robert Robinson, a former Assistant District Attorney.

After a short time spent in the Suffolk prosecutor's office, Haven and his counsel went immediately to

AID ALEXANDER FUND TODAY

The first benefit performance for Mrs. Benjamin Alexander and her six young children, made fatherless by the Pickwick Club disaster, when Police Inspector Alexander was crushed to death, was conducted on Boston Common at 11:30 o'clock.

The fund is mounting rapidly, he Marie's company participated, was staged on Lafayette Mall, opposite West street, and continued for one hour. No admission was charged, but those in attendance were given an opportunity to swell the fund by purchasing news-clipper coupons for the $4.00 mark.

This big benefit show, in which seventy-five members of the "Rose Society" company participated, was continued on Page 5, Column 2.

COOL EAST WINDS FOR TONIGHT AND TOMORROW

Partly cloudy today, unsettled tonight and Wednesday, is the Weather Bureau's hope of the weather for the next twenty-four hours in Boston. Moderate easterly winds will prevail and there will be little change in temperature. Rain is falling in the Great Lake Region and in the South Atlantic States, but they are light showers and the conditions causing them will not obtain in Boston. If not Wednesday will be fair.

COURT VIEW SCOPE DICTUM IS LEGAL EXPECTED AT DAYTON

Courthouse, Dayton, Tenn., July 14 (I.N.S.).—The Scoopes evolution trial, marking a definite break between religion and science, hung upon a constitutional issue today with its fate resting in the hands of presiding Judge John F. Raoulston.

The pending question was on the defense motion asking the court to hold the indictment of John T. Scoopes as unconstitutional and to hold the law itself invalid. Raoulston came into the courtroom prepared to hand down a ruling after seeking most of the night on the decision.

In the meantime Darrows has been virtually estranged by his scientific views and bitterness is expected to break out again today.

Public opinion here predicted the judge would approve the indictment and overrule the defense's motion. This action was anticipated by State counsel, feared by the defense, and

PICK THIRD L ARBITER TODAY; STRIKE FADES

James H. Vaher and Roland W. Boyden met today to select a third man to add them in arbitrating the difference between the Boston Elevated and its 6,000 employees.

Boyden represented the trustees and Vaher is attorney and advisor extraordinary of the Carmen's Union.

Worse, working conditions and other matters are to be adjudicated by this three-man committee, with Boyden and Vaher serving on it.

All talk of a strike of the Carmen and a consequent loss of transportation facilities has died away.

Governor Fuller's vigorous two-sided ultimatum helped to kill it.

ANTI-APE PARTISANS OF CHARNEY DARROW

ALLIGATORS APOUSED HIS CONFESSION OF AGNOSTICISM AT TRIAL

Charnes Darrow in his impassioned address to the court.

Darrow charged the law flouts history, limited free of intolerance, and denied minority the right to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences.

Proceeding counsel heard their hope for a favorable decision on the question of an early trial case in which Tennessee Supreme Court upheld the right of general assembly to dictate curriculum in the public schools.

In the case, a school teacher was held a law requiring the use of certain prescribed text books and making a constitutional defense. The State Supreme Court, however, held that the Legislature, because it created the public schools, had an "inherent control" over their courses and curriculum.

WILL CLASS TO COME.

With a decision favorable to the State, both sides were ready to proceed with the trial on its merits. People will be arranged and should not gully in defiance of the law.

Then will follow the postponed motion over the admissibility of testimony by witnesses, on whether or not they were in the courtroom at the time of the divine creation of man. In this contest, William Jennings Bryan was expected to take his first active part in the trial.

As a result, before night fall the evolutionists anticipated a stirring debate between Bryan and Darrow on the respective merits of religion and science. The future of the trial will hinge on this debate and the decision of Judge Raulston on hearing arguments.

Many of the people of Dayton were amazed today to find Darrow was still walking alive through the streets.

Some had expected a wrath from an high would strike him dead with lightning in the court room because he had said that he is an agnostic and because he has dared to defend Darrow.

There were other manifestations of this spirit in evidence today. It broke out in the court house when General Benjamin Gordon McKenney, an attorney for the prosecution, in the course of argument that a sixteen-year-old boy could interest the anti-evolution law as well as those "smart lawyers from Chicago and New York."

FAILS TO SMOOTH TANGLE.

This brought Dudley Field Malone to his feet with a bitter objection to the raising of sectional issues.

"We are not here as representatives of another section," he exclaimed. "We are here as Americans and lawyers, in a court of justice."

Judge Raulston tried to smooth this over by explaining Mr. McKenney's brand of humor. But McKenney stood on his rights.

"We appreciate the hospitality of Tennessee," he said sternly. "But we are in this court as lawyers, not as guests."

Another expression of the intolerant spirit that pervades the atmosphere was the reaction today to the fact that Darrow's clothing was not approved by a Cuban President since 1905.

The execution will be by the guillotine, a relic of the Spanish rule. In the case convicted designated as executioner should show the courage at the last moment, an alternate had been named.

Mrs. Byrd, the frail little wife of the carpenter-preacher, also felt the sting of ostracism. Since her husband was told that his church would be broken up over the evolution issue not one woman of the town has called on her. In the past the neighbors were a place where neighbors in a row in for a few minutes' chat at all hours.

But what would others think of them if they were seen going in the house of an evolutionist?

Instead, some who live in the neighborhood in their windows looking at the scene as though it were a play, hoping to get a glimpse of the scene and his wife. But they were unwelcome to a Mrs. Byrd was concerned. She has been forced to evolution.

This attitude can only be explained by one fact. In the minds of these people a person is either a Christian or a devil-worshiping evolutionist. Christ, in their way of thinking, are people who believe as they do. There is a strong conviction here that there is only one religion.

CUBAN SLAYER IS TO BE GARROTED

Havana, July 14 (A.P.)—President Machado has approved the death sentence of Valentin Martinez, convicted of killing his wife. This is the first civil death sentence approved by a Cuban President since 1905.

U. S. and Swedish Match Monopoly in Poland

Warsaw, Poland, July 14 (A.P.)—A match monopoly is created by a bill adopted by the Polish Diet.

It is suggested that it will be operated by a Swedish-American firm with headquarters in New York. It is estimated the government will receive a minimum of $1,600,000 yearly without an increase in the present price of matches.

FEED GUILTERS OF 1920 REACH CAMP DEVENS

Camp Devens, July 14 (A.P.)—One thousand members of the 102nd Field Artillery, Massachusetts National Guard, Colonel Redmond, commanding, arrived at Camp Devens today to begin their annual tour of instruction.

The regiment, which includes men from Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Lynn and Salem, was met at the entrance to the camp by the adjutant, Edward L. Logan and his staff. The regiment camped at Littleton Commons, a night after having more than twenty miles from Methuen.

Considering that the horses are green, it was not expected that the regiment would arrive in camp until tomorrow.

The 102nd and 101st regiments of infantry, with the machine gun companies and howitzers, will pass the day on the range.

Despite the heat, the men performed remarkably well at the target and of their course today as they did yesterday they may be able to complete this work in a half day sooner than was at first expected.

A football team will take part in Governor's day. A holiday will be declared in camp and racing, tennis and other sports will be featured.

A series of baseball games will be played between units of the various regiments.

The 102nd Infantry from Springfield and other cities and towns in the western part of the State is organizing teams.

OTTAWA 'PALACE' WAS GUTTED

Ottawa, July 14 (A.P.)—A fire broke out in the Ottawa Palace today, destroying the building.

PARIS GAY AS PEOPLE CELEBRATE BASTILLE DAY

Paris, July 14 (A.P.)—France is celebrating her national feast with unexampled spirit. Bastille day falling on a Tuesday, everything has been shut down since last year.

Bonny games to be the only consideration for the government, which has curtailed outdoor reviews of such splendor on the ground of expense. The traditional outdoor review of the army and navy in the streets of the capital has been held for the first time in the city since 1870.

In Paris, the state theatres are giving their customary free performances, and other time-honored customs are being carried out. Many American tourists are conspicuous among the celebrants.

President Sees Menace to the Constitution if Bryan Wins in Scopes Case

By GEORGE E. DUNNO

Swampport, Mass., July 14 (A.P.)—President Wilson, in a letter to the editor of the Boston Herald, today said that the situation of the United States is such that the nation today at White Court, Summer home of the President, to the proposal of William Jennings Bryan that the Constitution be amended as to prohibit the teaching of the theory of evolution in American schools, and to compel belief in the first chapter of the Bible.

President Coolidge is following closely the great legal battle now being waged at Dayton, Tenn., between the proponents of Darwinism and the backers of Genesis. His interest focuses on the constitutional aspects of the case almost entirely and he is reading widely the reports in the press bearing on the case.

WILL BE "ABHORRING"

It is the President's conviction that the Constitution is based upon the belief in the God of Israel. He regards the idea as "abhorring," and in fact, as a direct threat to the foundation of the government. He is a devout Christian and a full religious freedom.

A close constitutional student himself, President Coolidge is familiar with the fact that the framers of that great document refrained by unanimous vote from writing into it any reference to the Christian religion.

He has advocated religious freedom in practicing every public address he has made bearing even indirectly to the subject. His own speech in particular, that delivered before a group of ministers at Washington, he told his audience they would do far more good by preaching the gospel of "God is living" than by seeking to teach in school the many theories of the particular branches of the church.

DANGER IN RELIGION.

The President is deeply concerned over the danger to the country of the religious fanaticism of the common man. He is a devout Christian and a full religious freedom.

WARNEr OF FIRE WATSON LEADS FIGHT FOR FAIR CONTRACT

Chelsea Hazard Debated at Stormy Session of Aldermen Who Then Adjourn

Chelsea aldermen warned again at a stormy session that their city is one of the worst fire districts in the entire country, adjourned for the summer without taking any action toward relieving the situation.

With experts of the underwriters organizations in attendance to furnish expert information of the situation, Mayor Quigley and the aldermen were again charged with being responsible for the situation by one of their own body, Alderman F. C. Taylor.

MAYOR ASSAILS EXPERT.

The special meeting of the Board of Aldermen was called as the result of the recent publication of a letter from Percy Hughes, secretary of the National Fire Protection Association. Mr. Hughes declared that as a result of the extremely bad conditions in Chelsea, particularly in Ward 2, the "rag factory" built by insurance companies had been forced to do business in Chelsea any longer.

Hughes appeared before the Board of Aldermen last night to back up these charges, and he in turn was assailed by Mayor Quigley, who declared the picture was overdrawn by the expert.

ADJOURNMENT TAKEN.

John Caldwell, chief engineer of the New England Insurance Exchange, who also attended the meeting, corroborated the statements of the fire protection expert. Mr. Caldwell declared that unless conditions in Chelsea were cleared up it is easy to conceive of Chelsea having another fire as disastrous as that of 1893. He declared that men should be kept in fireproof buildings only.

In defense of the city Mayor Quigley declared that everything possible had been done to protect the property so far as enforcing the fire regulations would permit. He took issue with Mr. Hughes for giving to the press a letter on conditions in Chelsea without first taking the matter up with the officials of Chelsea.

MOTHER BACKS ADOPTION OF 'CINDERELLA'

Unable to Part With Child as Millionaire Browning Prepares to Sign Papers

New York, July 14 (A.P.)—Margaretta Curry, eleven-year-old child actress, appeals to Edward W. Browning, wealthy realtor, who has advertised for a pretty, refined girl that she can adopt in order to have a playmate for Dorothy Bushnell, another adopted daughter.

Margaretta was selected from the thousands of girls willing to be sisters to Dorothy Bushnell, who has 66 dolls, 120 dresses and her own Rolls-Royce. Mr. Browning likes Margaretta and Margaretta was convinced she would like to be the daughter of Mr. Browning.

With the adoption papers ready to sign, the mother began to realize what losing Margaretta would mean. Ready to cry, she fled Mr. Browning's office, where negotiations were in progress, leaving Margaretta sitting on the floor, playing with a string of pearls, the gift of Mr. Browning.

A little later a woman friend of the mother came. Mrs. Browning said to say the adoption could not proceed until Margaretta's mother had more time to think things over.

Meanwhile Mr. Browning is reading letters from thousands that have poured into his office, in the hope of finding another foster daughter. Should Margaretta's mother decide she cannot do without her, Jason Weiler & Sons' employees at Beach.

One hundred and twenty employees of Jason Weiler & Sons, diamond importers and jewelers, No. 874 Washington street, held their annual outing at Humarock Beach, F. E. Doretti, E. P. Brunelle and J. MIKE HERE FROM MAINE, FAIL TO SEE COOLIDGE

Richard Consonant, fourteen, and John Herriot, fifteen, of Portland, Me., are on their way back home today, having failed in the main mission of their trip to Boston, which was to see President Coolidge.

The boys, who only enough money for one meal, set out from home Sunday morning. By dint of good luck and the aid of passing motorists, they reached Boston Sunday night, but their lunch money was spent and they were too proud to appeal to police for aid. They slept on the Common Sunday night and yesterday, almost famished, they set out determinedly for Lynn.

In Chelsea the boys asked directions of Special Officer George Fint. The officer questioned the lads and finally learned their story. Finn immediately bought the boys something to eat and then notified their parents, who sent money for their return.

Patrolman "Pop" Lynch, driver of the Chelsea auto patrol, who found the boys on vacation, took the boys home with him to spend the night, pending the arrival of the funds. To day they left for Portland, happy despite the failure of their trip.

MILLIONS HAVE AFFECTED EARTH

Most Important Shocks in the World's History Recorded in the Last 12 Months

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. Just a year ago today an earthquake shook the northwestern part of this country and Canada opened a twelfth-month called "the most significant year in the history of earthquake hazard," the Engineering-Economics Foundation points out in a statement published today. The Foundation is engaged in a study of earthquake hazard.

"In this year itself more than a quarter of the people of the United States and Canada have felt the effect of earthquake shocks," the report continues.

"And of the great group of new women and children, those in New England, New York, Montana and Alberta realized, in many cases for the first time, that their own areas were not immune to earthquake shock."

"When we examine the story further, we find not only that the United States has been widely affected, but also that earthquakes have been felt in Japan, Mexico, South America, Jamaica and the Channel Islands have played their part in the wide-spread story."

"Measured by space affected, measured by number, or measured by difference of some of the year's ranks with the most important of earthquakes of the past century."

"Measured by the significance of the lessons taught, it ranks first. No year has given more lessons to mankind of the possible dangers of earthquakes than this year of the way to meet those dangers."

In brief, no single year since the beginning of the century has opened one hundred years ago, has given more lessons to mankind of the ways in which men die or suffer under conditions of earthquake shock, or of the possibility of lesser death, loss and suffering under such conditions.

For all these reasons, this year has been called by many the most important year in the history of earthquake hazard.

SWAMPSCOTT MAN AND BRIDE SAY FOR EUROPE

Fred L. Valpey of Ingalls Terrace, Swampscott, and his bride, who was Miss Lillian B. Rolin of Woodville street, Lynn, will sail on the S. S. ## Stork Beats Auto Traveling at 50 Miles an Hour

Rochester, N. Y., July 14 (A.P.)—A race between an automobile and the stork, to decide whether the population of Monroe or Orleans County would be increased by one, was won by the stork, giving the honor to Orleans County.

The race was revealed today when the mother, Mrs. Margaret Henderson of Rochester was brought to a hospital here by her child.

The race occurred while Mr. and Mrs. Henderson were returning from Otisville Sunday. Although driving at fifty miles an hour, this city could not be reached, and the child was born in a farmhouse on the "Million-Dollar Highway."

"In this year itself more than a quarter of the people of the United States and Canada have felt the effect of earthquake shocks," the report continues.

"And of the great group of new women and children, those in New England, New York, Montana and Alberta realized, in many cases for the first time, that their own areas were not immune to earthquake shock."

'BAGER' GAME COSTS MAINE MAN HIS ROLL

Injured "Husband" Flees as Cop Appears, but Holds on to Cash

Wrestling plodding the tale back to Augusta, Me., is "John Baggan." His real name police are withholding, but less than 24 hours in Boston convinced John that Augusta had fewer pitfalls than the Hub.

During his brief stay here, John figured in a "bagger" game, lost all his money, and then witnessed an exciting police chase, in which shots were fired, but without bringing him back his money.

John came here yesterday with $17. Early today, while walking along Hale street in the West End, the $17 had shrunk to a single $5 bill.

A woman approached John and asked him the time. He courteously told her. The woman seemed friendly and the Augusta citizen kept up his end of the conversation.

A man came up the street. He pressed something into the palm of John's back and wanted to know what he was doing with his money. John told how innocent he was of any wrongdoing.

"It's all stuff with you, for you've lost my wife away before," continued the stranger. But he finally agreed to forget the injury done him for $25. John only had $5 and he rendered this to the stranger.

"HUSBAND" FLEES. John then came around the corner. The injured "husband" fled down Hale street. The policeman followed and fired several shots. The "husband" ran through a building, across several roofs, down a fire escape and finally escaped.

When the policeman returned, John was standing on the sidewalk alone. The faithful "wife" had taken to her heels at intervals.

DIDN'T KNOW REVOLVER WAS LOADED; IS WOUNDED

Carelessness in handling a revolver that he did not know was loaded resulted in a serious wound to Anthony Cassella, eighteen, of No. 203 Salem street, last night. He is at the Hotel station, Hays ward, charged. A bullet torn through his leg, across several roofs, down a fire escape, and finally escaped.

New Link Found Near Sea of Galilee

Jerusalem, July 14 (I.N.S.)—A prehistoric skull whose discovery holds coincidental interest with the Pompeii trial in Tennessee, was found near the sea of Galilee, which lies near the sea of Galilee. While the skull resembles that of the Neanderthal European type of prehistoric man, scientists say it places the time of primitive man in Palestine at a more remote period than any previous discovery.

The skull resembles that of a chimpanzee in the area over the eyes and in the depressed forehead.

BONES OF OLD MONSTER FOUND IN GRAVEL PIT

Trousdale, N. Y., July 14 (A.P.)—Parts of the skeleton of what is believed to have been a prehistoric animal were found yesterday by members of the Rochester Historical Society, following the discovery of the bones by excavators in a sand pit.

The sections of the skeleton found included a skull, a huge jawbone with some teeth, parts of the spine and several oval-shaped bones.

BROWN SILENT ON SLATER CHARGES

Wool Man Refuses Comment on Allegation He Profited at Plaintiff's Expense

Jacob F. Brown, member of the wool firms of Brown & Howe and Brown & Adams, with offices at No. 172 Summer street, today refused to discuss the charges made by Slater & Sons, Inc., in the Supreme court at Worcester.

Mr. Brown declared he was not prepared to make any statement at this time. In a suit brought by the Slater company Brown is charged with so conducting the Slater business, of which he is alleged to have obtained control, that he personally, and firms in which he was heavily interested, profited largely, to the detriment of the Slater interests.

Brown formerly was president and a director of the Slater company and a trustee under the will of Horatio N. Slater. The company seeks an accounting involving several millions of dollars.

According to the latest edition of the Directory, Mr. Brown is a director of the National Trust Bank and of the Shawmut Corporation of Boston. He is also president and director of the Wausau Mill, Inc. His address here is No. 11 Commonwealth avenue.

PRETTY GIRLS AID ALEXANDER FUND

FIRST BENEFIT FOR ALEXANDER FUND TODAY

papers from the forty lovely chorus girls connected with this fine musical comedy. Mayor James M. Curley was the principal speaker.

The company presented the chief numbers of "Rose Marie," including "Indian Love Call," "Why Should We," "Fetters Tom Tom" and "Door of My Dreams." Each of these songs is a class by itself as the thousands of New England theatre-goers who have heard them, at the Shubert Theatre, will testify.

Among those who played prominent parts in today's benefit performance were Paul Donah and Charles Meakins, both of whom are leading members of the company.

Mr. Meakins, who plays the part of Sergeant Malone of the "Royal Mounted," led a string of eleven men, mostly recruits from the Grand Opera, back of these men is a soloist of attainment, Pablo Bruns, principal dancer of the company, who scores so heavily in the sensational "Totem Pole" number in the show, was also in this noon's program.

Paul Donah, who is leading man of the production, was heard in the famous "Rose Marie" number with sixty-five voices joining. He has a marvelous baritone voice.

Baritone Kay, the sprightly genius of the company, was also heard, joining with Houston Richards in comedy song and dance numbers. Richards is the principal comedian and has a wide acquaintance among Boston theatre-goers.

Another of the principals who led one or more numbers was Clara Frye, also from Grand Opera ranks. The generous self-sacrificing act of Mrs. Anna F. Halleran of Truro, widow of Patrolman Paul F. Halleran, in refusing to accept any portion of the fund, preferring that her share should be turned over to the six kiddies of Inspector Alexander has resulted in much praise.

In sending a contribution of $1, Philip Miller wrote: "Mrs. Halleran's refusal to accept money which is raised for children was a most generous and self-sacrificing act, and her noble example should result in greater number of additional contributions."

"An enclosing my personal check for $1 to be added to the 'Alexander fund.' I have no doubt that your great paper will put this fund over the top, so that the children of a brave police officer who died in the performance of his duty shall not be deprived of any opportunities which are rightfully theirs."

Mattie Bronstein of Jamaica Plain, who rose from a poor effort on his part contributed $20 and wrote "Enclosed find two checks for $10 each. You are doing a noble work."

Many clubs and fraternal organizations are planning to send in donations. One of the first to contribute was Ansonia Council, Knights of Columbus, whose members are now hard working when a good cause needs a boost.

Contributions to the fund follow: Betty Hinton..... $100.00 Previously acknowledged..... $380.20 L. F. Wall..... 2.00 Mrs. A. Rubin..... 2.00 Morris Silverman..... 1.00 H. D. D..... 10.00 George Dennis..... 5.00 H. F. P..... 5.00 T. Rose..... 2.00

Mr. Meakins, who plays the part of Sergeant Malone of the "Royal Mounted," led a string of eleven men, mostly recruits from the Grand Opera, back of these men is a soloist of attainment, Pablo Bruns, principal dancer of the company, who scores so heavily in the sensational "Totem Pole" number in the show, was also in this noon's program.

Paul Donah, who is leading man of the production, was heard in the famous "Rose Marie" number with sixty-five voices joining. He has a marvelous baritone voice.

Baritone Kay, the sprightly genius of the company, was also heard, joining with Houston Richards in comedy song and dance numbers. Richards is the principal comedian and has a wide acquaintance among Boston theatre-goers.

Another of the principals who led one or more numbers was Clara Frye, also from Grand Opera ranks. The generous self-sacrificing act of Mrs. Anna F. Halleran of Truro, widow of Patrolman Paul F. ## MAYOR SCORES HUB BANKING HOUSES

Council Approves Loan of $225,000 for Dock Square Widening

Boston banking houses were the target of Mayor Curley at a meeting of the city council at which he urged approval of a loan of $225,000 for widening Dock Square.

In attacking the interests in opposition to the widening of Exchange street, Mayor Curley told the council: "If Slavinsky and Murphy conducted their banking establishment at that corner instead of Lee, Higginson & Co., Exchange street would have been widened and our downtown traffic problem would have largely disappeared."

The council approved the Dock square loan, also a similar loan for the widening of Morton street.

YACHT CLUB PLAN. Councilman Donoghue's order providing that the park department investigate the advisability of founding a municipal yacht club also received a favorable vote.

Councilman Donoghue urged that if the city could afford to appropriate money for the building and maintenance of a municipal yacht club and tennis courts, it ought to be able to furnish a place for citizens who liked sailing, but could not afford to belong to a private yacht club.

Another suggestion of Donoghue's which met favor was an order that the wire inspectors at the first department enforce regulations for the installation of telephones.

WORK TO START ON SLATER HOTEL SOON

Work on the new Slater hotel in Park square is expected to be begun soon after the action of the Boston city council in voting to spend $1,000,000 to make a mark of the small triangular place opposite the site of the new building.

Mayor Curley urged the council to approve the project, pointing out that the city derived a large revenue from conventions and that the city was worthy in need of another hotel.

The hotel will represent a value of $1,000,000, he said, and will be fourteen stories high and approximately 120,000 annually.

The Slater interests had written to the mayor, advising him that they were prepared to go ahead at once with the hotel project provided the city would improve the section by making a park on the site.

The question in question has a total valuation, including buildings, of $100,000. The city will have to pay about $2 per cent. above this for takings. Of the total, the value of the buildings is practically negligible, being only $4000. They are small stores for the most part.

A good lot had been vacant. In a statement issued through Warren V. Taylor, local attorney for the Hotel Slater Company, Inc., was said a general contract for construction of the hotel would be awarded as soon as some slight changes and improvements had been made in the plan and specifications and new construction bids obtained.

TO CONTAIN 1,300 ROOMS. Besides the hotel itself, which will be fourteen stories and 140 feet high, permitted under new building regulations, and containing 1,300 rooms and bath the new plans call for an office building. This will be erected on the portion of the block in the triangle formed by Providence street, Park square and Columbus avenue, recently acquired by the New Haven railroad, thereby giving Mr. Slater title to the entire block.

In addition to the new office floor, the office building will provide approximately 25,000 square feet of office space. It will be the same height as the hotel and its facade will be treated architecturally to conform with the latter's exterior. A passageway will connect the two structures, so that tenants of the office building may pass to the hotel without going outside.

PAYS $5 FINE FOR HAVING LIQUOR AT BALL

Theodore Myers, a Springfield business man, before United States Judge Lowell, pleaded guilty to "information" charging possession of liquor.

"Your Honor," he said, "I was attending a masquerade ball and there was a little something to drink. Prohibition agents got in there by mistake."

Judge Lowell smiled and fined Myers $5.

HITS COPS' CAR, WOMAN DRIVER HELD AS DRUNK

Mrs. Helen V. Daley of Springfield, Mass., was arrested by Lynn police on charges of operating an auto while under the influence of liquor and of operating without having a license or registration with her.

The charges were out of a collision of the Daley one and the police auto. Mrs. Daley did not stop and was caught after a chase.

HUB WOMEN ARE PROMINENT IN L. C. B. A. MARCH

Atlantic City Paraders From Bay State Headed From Alhambra Band

Atlantic City, July 14.—Boston delegates attended the annual convention of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association today took a prominent part in the parade, which was one of the features of the opening of the convention.

The parade followed the celebration of solemn high mass in the Church of St. Nicholas.

The Alhambra band of Boston, which accompanied the 100 Boston delegates to the biennial convention of the Order of the Alhambra, was sent to the Boston Catholic women for the parade, and marched at the head of the Boston delegation.

Mrs. Alice C. Maloney of Dorchester, New England representative on the board of directors, is assured of an unanimous reelection for another four years.

The Alhambra gathering is equally as well attended and enthusiastic as that of the L. C. B. A. The Rev. M. J. S. J. of St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, is one of the leaders of the Boston delegation.

The election of officers Wednesday promises to develop some surprises. Pres. Ryan has held the place for several years. Being the editor of a Catholic paper, he finds the work too much to continue with much longer, and those close to him say that he would welcome retirement.

In looking around for a successor many eyes turned to Dr. E. J. McLeod of Boston. He has been associated with the Alhambra some 15 years.

MILTON WOMAN RUNS DOWN WEST QUINCY BOY

WHITE SLAVERY IS CHARGED TO BOY FLOPER

Myles Madison, 19, of Winthrop Faces U. S. Trial in Runaway With Miss White

What a romantic boy and girl called an elopement, the law calls violation of the Mann act.

So Myles Madison, nineteen years old, of Winthrop, will go to trial in Syracuse, N. Y., charged with an offence against the white slave law in luring fifteen-year-old Mary Elizabeth White, also of Winthrop, to run away with him.

They were taken into custody a few days ago in a run down automobile a few miles out of Syracuse. They were asleep, although the section was experiencing one of the worst electrical storms in years. The girl said she eloped with the boy to escape being sent to a convent.

Captain White of the East Boston Airport, who is the girl's father, intimated he would prosecute the boy, and swore out a warrant charging abduction.

But when Federal District Attorney Oliver D. Burden expressed a wish to prosecute young Madison for violation of the Mann act, the Massachusetts authorities waived their claim to priority.

The girl was brought home a day or two ago by her mother.

FLYING HAZARD IS LOW, SAYS
AIRMAN

Deaths From Accidents Very Few, Major Richmond Points Out

Major Arthur L. Richmond, commanding officer of the 94th Division United States Army Air Service, organized reserve, commenting on the death of Lieutenant Charles F. Hickey of Brockton and Lieutenant Albert C. Perry of Marlboro, two Massachusetts fliers who were killed when their plane crashed to the ground near Westbury, N. Y., made the following statement to the Boston Evening American:

"Although this is a most regrettable accident, carrying with it infinite sympathy for the relatives and friends of the two boys, it is not however, an index to flying.

"Where admittance to the reserve corps of aviators is optional, and where the flying is done by the boy at will, it is indeed a sorrowful happening that two of them who saw fit to give of their services to the country should have met with such a fate.

"However, flying is less dangerous than automobiling and carrying with it not so many of the hazards of the road and highways. Proportionate to the increase in the interest in flying, accidents resulting in death are decreasing.

"Between fifty and sixty pilots have qualified to fly regularly at the Boston Air Port, and this is a considerable increase over the number of the past year. There has been more flying in New England than in any part of the country, and when one remembers that this is all reserve flying, it is indeed an encourage-

"Men are intensely interested in flying, and it is my hope that Mr. Williams of the Boston Evening American will continue his good work in obtaining more funds for more flying. There is an insufficient number of planes for use compared to the number of men who would use them if they were there."

"While I didn't know the boys since they weren't part of my outfit, nevertheless credit and tribute are due to any of them who optional-

"The more filers the more enthusiasm. And if present conditions are at all warrantable of a criterion, flying is a most compelling force of the future."

Jerry McDonald Tells Augusta Police of Hard Knocks in East Boston

Augusta, Me., July 14.—If a fellow ever needed a friend, Jerry McDaid, fourteen-year-old East Boston boy, is one.

Fate has dealt more unkind blows to Jerry, despite the fewness of his years, than many men experience in their entire lifetimes.

The limit came when Jerry couldn't stand the pangs of hunger any longer, and he saw a lot of cakes and fruit piled on the back of a truck. Two bananas and a small cake were all Jerry took, but a lynx-eyed policeman saw him as Jerry was arrested and locked up. Jerry's hunger beat the policeman, though, and he crammed the fruit and cake into his empty stomach. Even while the policeman was laying a heavy hand on his shoulder,

But the arrest only marked the climax of the tough luck that had followed Jerry for the past two months.

His attending physician felt that it was just a bit premature to permit the tiny tooth admittance several months ahead of his brothers and so Dr. Walter Trombley was called in to extract the precocious member.

THRILL-SLAYER IS TRAILED TO PLATTSBURGH

Knapp Believed to Be Hiding With Bootleg Friends in Thousand Islands

New York, July 14 (A.P.)—Phillips Knapp, army air corps deserter, who is sought as a thrill-a-minute search that extended to several New York cities and to Alexandria Bay in the Thousand Islands.

An Air Corps deserter, Mitchell Field had searched the region around Plattsburg without obtaining clues.

Knapp, before his desertion from Mitchell Field, wrote of his desire to experience a super-thrill. Louis Pennella, Hempstead taxicab driver, who had been arrested and the body stuffed under an ash heap.

The name "E. K. Rogers" on the register of a hotel at Albany is Knapp's handwriting.

At Plattsburg a man answering Knapp's description registered at a hotel Thursday night. He checked out early the next day. Knapp intimthat in case of trouble he could find a refuge in the Thousands Islands

The word of planes and man was satisfactory, it was announced today, and the race in San Francisco will return in a matter of days. Interest. The prizes of $1,000 offered by William Randolph Hearst as consolation for the withdrawal of the aviators to reflect credit upon the city of San Francisco.

The 125-mile course through the San Joaquin Valley have been marked off in "zones" of approximately 10 miles each and the racing pilots will be called upon to make five landings, some of them on fields which they

The squadron has been supplied with equipment by the city government and the planes in use are typically all of the slow and tried type, commonly known as "Jenny." This prohibits speed tests and race will be judged on standard reliability and efficiency.

Should any emergency crop up, a route pilot and observer will be prepared to demonstrate efficiency in the use of maps and packs. Each man wears one of the life-saving devices strapped to his back, and when a pilot is forced to fall he steps out on a wing, jumps and glides, thus saving that of his parachute.

BOTTLE OF MILK FOR EACH CHILD ON OUTING

Cookies, Too, Provided for Nantasket Beach Trip Given by Boston Evening American Nourishing milk is on the menu for the kiddies and grownups on the first of this summer's Mothers' and Children's Outings of the Boston Evening American at Nantasket Beach, Tuesday, July 21.

The milk will be provided by H. P. Hood & Sons, and there will be plenty for every one of the 3,000 who will make the trip on the two big Nantasket steamers.

Every mother and child will have a big bottle.

Cookies to go with the milk will be provided by the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company, manufacturers of Sunshine Biscuits, through the generosity of Edwin W. Rice, treasurer of the concern, and Joseph P. Harbo, city sales manager.

Today the second coupon appears in the Boston Evening American. Only three of these coupons are necessary, but they must be of consecutive dates, and all mothers should carefully read the instructions and rules, which must be observed.

Coupons will be exchanged for tickets for the first outing only on Saturday, July 18, from 8 to 12 o'clock, at No. 288 Devonshire street, near Summer street.

There will be a coupon printed each day. This week's coupons are for the first outing, of July 21, only. Every parent must have a ticket to board the boat, every mother and every child. Each ticket is for a certain boat. The first boat leaves Howe's Wharf at 9:15 a. m., the second at 10:15 a. m., July 21.

NOVELTY ORCHESTRA HIT OF KEITH'S BILL

Ben Meroff and His High Hatters lead the bill this week at R. P. Keith's Theatre and based upon their performance last night the prediction that they will continue to lead Keith's programs will not go far wrong. Ben introduces one of the best orchestras yet heard on a Boston stage and there is plenty of novelty in the act.

In addition there is an excellent program of well acted features including the Ruber Trio, three xylophone players and dancers; Prosper and Mary in lifting stunts; Stuart Casey and Mildred Warren in "The Fog," a playlet based upon a chance meeting in the London house; Courtney and Joyce in a skit; O'Donnell and Blair present a comedy; and a variety of other acts, billed as the queen of sympathy; Harry Rose, well known comedian; and Mack and Mania in an aerial performance.

CLIVE BROOK IN 'WOMAN HATER' AT FENWAY

Flapper's Hero Handsome as Ever in New Film; Strongheart as White Fang

Ask any flapper, or grown woman either for that matter, what she thinks of Clive Brook. If you hear her answer at all it will be through a sort of gurgles and ecstatic sighs. Well, no wonder. Clive Brook is all there in there isn't any more. In "The Woman Hater," now at the Fenway, he is as handsome as ever in the role of Miles Faversham, a successful artist whose tragic experience in his first love causes him to look upon all women was dis-trust.

However, he meets Maria Laurent, beautiful French actress, and succumbs in the last reel after a heroic struggle. Helene Chadwick plays Marie and wears some gorgeous gowns—most effectively. John Harlan plays Philip—the goat, though it doesn't actually say so in the story, it's an interesting tale with plenty of very expensive "atmosphere."

The other picture is taken from Jack London's famous "White Fang" and is impressive with the color of the North.

White Fang, the dog who was half wolf, is played by Strongheart, possibly an interesting animal as ever faced a camera. White Fang belongs to the class of animals who save his life in a dog fight, and when he has to part from his master, the grief in his canine face is positively human. One can see the tears in his eyes.

White Fang proves his worth by rescuing his old master from a rushing man in a beautiful lady Julia.

Lady Julia is also a star, having played opposite to Strongheart in more than one picture. The Fenway News and Del Catlin's musical offering complete an attractive bill.

ROMANCE OF THE SNOWS FEATURES STATE BILL

A smart picture program was shown at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. Included in the offering were "The White Desert," a Reginald Barker thriller, with Clara Windsor, Pat O'Malley and Robert Fraser in the leading roles, and "For Another Woman," with Kenneth Harlan and an all star cast.

"The White Desert" is one of the greatest snow pictures ever made. It is the thrilling story of a love that flowered in the unlikeliest places where there is no law. On the whole the picture is a combination of a smooth story and finished acting. "For Another Woman" is a drama which drives deep into the hidden emotions of all mankind and is as vivid and arresting as our most vivid acting.

A Thrilling Novel of Love and Adventure, Mystery and Intrigue That Every-One Will Want to Read

Sally, standing by the barred window, was trying to steady herself. For two hours she had undergone the terrors of a third degree by Lazare.

SALLY MEERDITH, nervy niece of M. FREDERICK LASALLE, war gas inventor, is entrusted with the secret of opening the red lacquer case containing the formula sought by spies of rival governments. That night the red lacquer case is stolen and Lasalle mysteriously disappears. The case is so constructed that the formula is destroyed by one not in the secret.

MAJOR BILL ARMITAGE, seven years previously the sweet-heart of Sally, appears in search of Lasalle. Unexpected meeting renews acquaintances, but Sally is coy and Bill blunders. At Smugglers' Leap Bill and Sally find Lasalle's fountain pen, mute evidence which adds to the fears of Bill. Sally clings to hope.

DETECTIVE WILLIAMS enters the mystery and takes up the trail of the stolen case.
ETTA SHAW, once friend of Sally, lures the girl to London. She is made a prisoner by Lazare the Goggled Terror. Lazare attempts to terrorize Sally, but fails.
Read on and enjoy this wonderful story of love and mystery.

CHAPTER XVI.

It was Saturday morning. Sally stood by the barred window, her back to the rose-colored room that she loathed, her hands gripping one of the bars. Lazare had just left her, and she was trying to steady herself. For two hours she had undergone the terrors of a third degree by Lazare.

"You think," he said, "you think that we shall not proceed to extremities—you feel yourself sheltered by Etta—you think 'she will not let them go too far.' I tell you—" he stood in the doorway, a hand on either jamb, his light eyes hard on her—"I tell you, I am at the end. Till this evening I give you and no more. Then, if you do not open the case, you go elsewhere, where there will be no Etta, no other woman, not even that young fool Sascha who begins to be soft-hearted over you, no one but myself, and some others perhaps even less sentimental than I am. There are ways of making a woman do as one wishes. Believe me we shall employ them."

She stood in silence for a moment, then let his hands fall from the door posts. There was finally in the gesture. They fell heavily. The door shut. The bolts ran home. It was then that Sally turned from the room and gipped the lock of the window bar. Her eyes, unseeing, stared at the key. She did not know how the time passed. There was no time. Only a cold and deadly fear, colder than the iron and more desolate than pain.

The last forty-eight hours had been a nightmare. She had not undressed or slept for more than an hour or two at a time. She had been kept on a starvation ration of dry bread and weak coffee. She was not alone for more than ten minutes at a time. When Lazare was away Etta would come with her, but by increasing terror, her fearful entreaties, her appeals. When she went away another woman took her place; Etta called her Sascha. She was hard-faced, dark, and silent. Her part in the household seemed to be that of nurse to the Miss Shaws. She was kind and believed her to be utterly without compassion. Then Sascha herself was sent into the kitchen to practice, and at intervals to ask her the one intolerable, maddening question—"Will you open the red lacquer case?"

Sascha, it was true, was the least of the four. He could be diverted into discouraging of his art, persuaded to play his own piano, and to ignore the fact that she promptly went on whistling. It wasn't so difficult as when she thought it might be Lazare returning. The

COOLIDGE BOY TAUGHT TO BE JUSTICIOUS

Chicago, July 14.—John Coolidge, son of the President, furnished the best copy of the Summer Club today, although today as farm hand and chore boy at the old homestead in Plymouth, Vt., 185 miles away.

That may sound a bit paradoxical, but it is a fact. North Shore folks who have been wondering why John Coolidge is in the White Court with his parents instead of spending his vacation with his grandfather, Coolidge, little suspected the domestic psychology and high motive behind the plan.

John Coolidge is being brought up like any other American boy, but his parents are seeing to it that the influence of adolescence do not interfere with his education.

John is a good, obedient and ingenious as when he was twelve, thanks to a training similar to that followed in the average old-fashioned American home. President Coolidge's father made him doubly cautious concerning the welfare of his home when he was twelve.

DEEKA TAKES SCENT TO TRAIL QUARRY

His Following Scent to Be Offered as Evidence in Civil Action

Weston, Vt., July 14.—Whether the keen nose of a German police dog can be accepted in the Vermont courts as evidence, will be decided here within the next few days.

If the keener of scent of Deeka, the Doberman-Pinscher police dog of the "Hawk of North Eastern Mountain" fame, is requested by the courts as infallible, Alton W. Fuller faces payment of damages for alleged theft of a bit of tools from his neighbor, Arvis Kile.

The tools disappeared five years ago and the tracking down of Fuller reads like a bit of fairy fiction.

The tools, of considerable value, were taken from the blacksmith shop of the Jaquith Company mill in 1919.

It was not until a few days ago that the art of the tools and the chest were found by the owner in a pasture, as they were too heavy to carry easily. Kile left them and went for the police. On the return of the owner with the officers, the tools had again disappeared.

It was then the services of the police dog were sought, but the owner of Deeka, Nelson Peabody of Boston, refused to allow the use of the dog until a demand for the animal's services was made by Sheriff Fred A. Deland of Chester Depot.

Meanwhile a posse of neighbors, searching the country wide, again found the tools, concealed in a cave in the side of a hill. The handle of the tools was an old handkerchief.

By this time the police dog had again found the tools, and the handle of the tools was an old handkerchief.

The sheriff has not obtained a warrant for the arrest of the man accused by the dog, but the owner of the tools, Kile, has brought civil action against Fuller and will offer the evidence of Deeka's nose to support his claim.

JOHN SCOPER is on trial in Dayton, Tennessee, because he taught evolution in the classic public schools. Tennessee has a statute against teaching evolution. Scoper was a science teacher. The science which he was supposed to teach was based on the theory of evolution. There was no way in which he could teach biology and not teach that theory. He was taught it. And because he did, his violation of the law is held to be a high misdemeanor and he is being tried accordingly.

Taught Modern Biology

Modern biology is based on the Darwinian theory. The Darwinian theory does NOT say that man has descended from an ape. It DOES say that man has evolved from lower beginnings. It claims that during the evolution, the life force passed through many phases that it was first a more impulse animating force of air and that, as it adapted itself, it became more definite and complex.

As it grew it passed through various forms—forms that lived in water and air, the fish and tadpoles, and forms that climbed up higher on the beach and breathed dry air—forms that left the beach entirely and wandered over the land—forms that finally made their home in the trees and saved, while they were furnished with hands and feet, hair and nails, instead of scales and fins.

There is not space here to state all the facts which scientific discovery has unearthed, but the widely diversified developments of races and individuals in one present day is one of the obvious arguments.

There is not space here to state all the facts which scientific discovery has unearthed, but the widely diversified developments of races and individuals in one present day is one of the obvious arguments.

Claim Genesis a Parable.

The advocates of the Darwinian theory emphatically deny that they considered the Bible story of the creation. They claim that Genesis was a parable in which a great truth was handed down from generation to generation.

This form of truth was commonly employed by the various peoples who, in the course of many centuries, constructed the records which now have been assembled into one book, the Bible. The Darwinians claim that their theory is no way impaired by the fact that God is not mentioned in it, but that it is a simple analogy of the truth of the same fact.

That is the theory and attitude which John Scoper taught. As the law stands the Anti-Darwinian led by Mr. Bryan says that the Darwinian theory attacked the Bible story. They admit that the Bible is not one book, but a collection of books, written at widely separated times—many of them written before they had been collected, verbatim for centuries.

They also admit that out of the huge number of such books, which were assembled, only certain were saved and these arbitrarily selected by certain men. But the law of the Divine Authority guided the selection of these books and the record of facts must be accurate as given. They do not say how they came that this is so, but they claim that it is so.

Hold Scopes Heretic.

In the preface to the Human Progression edition given James Watson of the Bible, the following statement is given as proof that the Bible is the Word of God:

WHILE the fountain pen is nothing new, a Cleveland man has just invented one which he claims will work.
It sells you an overcoat with it to prevent the ink from getting on your vest.
It lasts a long time on one filling. It's a thirty-day pen. You probably can't fill it thirty days and then throw it away.
It's guaranteed not to soil your fingers. If it does, notify the company and they'll send you a cake of soap to wash your hands.
This form is selling them so fast that they haven't even got one for themselves. They have to sign their letters with a pencil.

UNCLE EZRA OBSERVES

By La Monte Waldron
VILLAGE teacher, Mr. Ezra, he don't believe in them them fortune tellers.
Sophy Sprague says Sam seems to be dealing in fake Sam's new days.
When the farmer gets his spring cheese done he ain't got nothin' to do but work.
Honesty is still the best way to keep out of the lock-up.
Aunt Eliza says, well all them fortune tellers, the devil, you'll think folks would stop their lady gussin'.
Some fellows think a newspaper makes 'em a great man.
Looks like young Dumbey Jones is 'goin' to beat Grever Carver White at not doin' nothin'.
Hi Jinks says he don't care no good job over to the Corners Thursday but he laughed so hard he's been here ever since.
Aunt Hannah Marley says that since folks stopped setting up their own 'growin' old the hull world is upset.
Some folks is always conversational about what ain't nothin' to do with.

BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa
BUNNY never seemed very anxious to call at a house nearby where Bobby and I often went for tea when we were visiting in England.
"I don't know why Bunny always refuses Miss Simpkins' invitations," said Bobby, speaking of the charming old lady at whose house we always had such pleasant times.
Soon a note was brought to me inviting us again to Miss Simpkins' house for tea.
"Oh," said Bobby, "I hope she has that strawberry jam today."
Bunny came in and I said to him:
"Hi, Miss Simpkins has invited us to tea and wants you particularly to come this afternoon. Clementine is going to India. Don't you want to say goodbye to her?"
"To say goodbye to Clementine will give me the greatest pleasure in the world. Then I will feel at liberty to go with you to Miss Simpkins when she asks us," he replied.
"Clementine may be all right but all of my friends in the neighborhood are afraid of her. She is the best cat and rabbit in the county," and Bunny gave a sigh.
That was it. Bunny was afraid of Clementine. I had never thought of it.
We started off and walked down the road to Miss Simpkins. There she stood in her garden with here would be a dignified slight smile.

COURTESY AT HOME

By Lucy Lowell
THE basis of good manners, as every writer on etiquette problems has found, is consideration for others. But our code makes it possible for us to appear considerate of others when fundamentally we consider ourselves first.
Of course, it is better to seem considerate than to make no consideration at all of the rights and happiness of those about us. But we are likely to find that we are happier if we are thoughtful of others. The more we really want them to be happy.
"Grace" writes me:
"Do you think that courtesy is a ship affection between members of a family?"
"My folks are working people, not well educated, and my sister and myself had no social training until we went out to work. After suffering from our mothers, we tried to learn good manners and of course we didn't lay them aside when we were home. Our brothers laugh at us and our father goes out of his way to be things to shame us before our friends."
They think it is silly to say "please" and "thank you" to their own people, though they are polite to others.
Grace is meeting the hardships that the law is for all sincere reformers. Ignorance always finds the law to be a nuisance. It is not so to be polite to relatives. Taking it all in all, courtesy between persons thrown together by the misfortune of family life is more necessary than it is between friends and acquaintances. The farther civilization progresses, the more folks realize that a certain amount of formality is necessary to carry on any social life. Whether it is between strangers or between persons bound by the ties of blood.
Grace's father is "polite" to the outside family. That is a good thing. He is a good father, knowing that he is probably well served by their behavior to the value of courtesy.
But he is without the basic quality of courtesy, which is to be polite to those who are not his own. He is a good father, knowing that he is probably well served by their behavior to the value of courtesy.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

It is easiest to put ahead when there are not too many of them. Some ambitious and energetic salesmen would rather sell than buy. Some ambitious and energetic salesmen would rather sell than buy.

Most individuals and alert companies that competition slackens during the summer months. The majority of people are tempted to take life easy. Tomorrow, they tell themselves, will be a better day. These things are easy to do. These things are easy to do.

If you are willing to pay the price to it during these days.

One of the things you may find one or two thoughts that will stimulate you to better yourself.

Summer days. Winter water. "Little things count." Yes, but don't neglect to go after big things.

Trouble is always overtaking the man who sneaks away from it. Self-satisfaction often is fatal to success.

To your task, not the boss. Others can give you a chance; you alone can take it.

We are all paid according to results, ultimately. Bragging often precedes lagging.

The man who rises without putting others down usually puts others up.

The only failure is the one which is not promoted, promote the whole person.

Usually is isn't the hard worker who finds work hard. Don't imagine your boss doesn't want to qualify for promotion.

Pleasure from responsibility and rewards will flow from it. There's little crowding on the higher rungs of the ladder, remember, when you are pushing and elbowing your way at the bottom.

WESTINGHOUSE GAINS IN TRADE FOR QUARTER

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. reported a gain of $1,500,000 in the third quarter of 1925. The gain was a result of increased sales in the electrical and mechanical divisions. The company's net income for the quarter was $1,500,000, compared with $1,200,000 in the same quarter of 1924.
